SAYS SPIRIT GUEST ATTENDED BANQUET

Longer Life League Head Asserts Dr. Peebles' Ghost Occupied Empty Chair

PSYCHIC MESSAGE IS READ

By the Associated Press Los Angeles, March 24.—Dr. James Martin Peebles, physician and scientist, died since February 15, not only attended in the spirit a banquet to celebrate his centennial, but has sent back "from beyond" at least one message, guests assembled to honor his memory said last night.

Dr. Guy Bogart, head of the Longer Life League, stood beside an empty chair at the banquet and announced that Dr. Peebles "is with us, sitting in this chair."

Later Dr. Bogart read a message he stated he had received from Dr. Peebles since the latter's death, through the late Herman Kuehn, publisher of Chicago. He explained that because of Dr. Peebles' short life "beyond" he was unable to communicate directly.

Message to Friend "A word to Guy (Dr. Bogart) and the Longer Life League friends," the message said. "I knew in my innermost vision that I would celebrate my centennial beyond the gates—but that I would be with the Longer Life League in the spirit," as well.

"It made little difference to me on which side of the gate I made the celebration. Guy recalls that I told him a couple of years ago that I was anxious to explore the moon and go journeying among the stars. Well, I am getting my wishes gratified. And the old rheumatism is a thing of the past.

"In the service of love you will find your excuse for living. It will make your life full and overflowing. Watch the physical side—the diet and exercises—to lengthen the years. It is a crime to die under a hundred years.

"There is No Death!" "This one word more: I am glad to add my testimony to the fact that there is no death."

Dr. Peebles before his death told friends he intended to attempt to communicate with them, as he had been deeply interested in various forms of psychic research.

The program included a speech by Dr. George A. Morrison, who will be 102 on June 4 next.

A memorial service for Dr. Peebles was held last night at a Los Angeles auditorium. During the day his ashes were scattered, according to a request in his will, over a rose garden, the location of which was kept a secret.

CLOUDBURST KILLS FOUR

Ten inches of Water Falls in Seven Hours—$750,000 Damage Burlington, Kan., March 24.—(By A. P.)—Four persons were killed and property damage estimated at $750,000 done at Burlington last night by a cloudburst which flooded Rock Creek and sent it sweeping down upon the city without warning.

The dead are Mrs. and Mrs. T. S. McGee, Mrs. Henry Hamrell and Miss Oletha Failing. Only the body of Miss Failing had been recovered today. Nine persons reported missing last night were found today unharmed.

Ten inches of water fell last night through 5 o'clock and midnight, sending the streets in the business section streams which at the crest ran ten to twelve feet deep. For several blocks store fronts caved in and about twenty-five homes were swept away. Much damage was done also to stock and crops in this district.

$3,150,800 IN COAL TAXES

Figure for Six Months' Output Under New State Law Harrisburg, March 24.—(By A. P.)—A revenue of between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 a year may be realized from the new State anthracite coal tax, whose constitutionality is now being tested in the Appellate Courts, according to summaries of the first reports of anthracite producers to be made to the Auditor General.

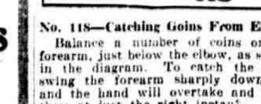

Figures made up by Auditor General Lewis from the reports of the anthracite producers for the first six months in which the tax was in operation, or from July 1 to December 31 last, the total tonnage of anthracite mined or dredged from the Susquehanna and other streams was 31,599,171.83 tons, the river coal being relatively a small part. This coal is valued at $210,043,310.43. The State tax on this value is calculated at $3,150,799.65.

SURRATT HOUSE FOR SALE

Place in Which Lincoln's Death Was Plotted Offered at Auction Washington, March 24.—A foreboding, dark gray old house was placed on the auction block here yesterday, but the auctioneer thought it was worth more than the bidders bid. It was the home of Mrs. Mary Surratt, who was executed as one of the Lincoln conspirators, and it was in the little front parlor of the once pretentious residence that the conspirators met and planned the death of the martyred President.

The house, standing then in the center of the residential section, was used as a boarding house by Mrs. Surratt for many years prior to 1865.

Uncommon Sense : Persistence Is Power

By JOHN BLAKE WELL known to the writer is a young man, who, without special talent, made up his mind at eighteen years that he was going to write plays for a living. He worked his way through Columbia University, taking a course in play writing under Prof. Brander Matthews. Matthews was not optimistic as to his future career, but he helped him all he could.

Graduating from Columbia, the young man went to Harvard, where he took a course in literature. Then he came to New York and began to write plays. But nobody wanted the plays. His funds, which he had saved out of such earnings as he had been able to make in various jobs secured out of college, gave out.

Presently he found it necessary to find a steady job to keep the wolf away. It was not a big paying job, but it talent, and we believe that talent is absolutely necessary to all great creative work.

BUT he has succeeded far better than many men of more talent and less persistence. And his example shows how powerful is persistence when it is of the sort that never lets go.

This young man today is comfortably situated, with a paying profession, a reputation worth money, and many friends. All this he has got by merely making up his mind that he was going to succeed, even though he had chosen one of the most difficult of all callings, and one for which he was not particularly fitted by nature.
